2. What is a cookie?

Nowadays, cookies are generally used on all websites and, in many cases, are necessary to be able to provide services on the website.

A cookie is a small text file that is stored on the user's IT equipment (computer, tablet, smartphone, etc.) so that the equipment can be recognised. Cookies can be used to produce statistics about use of the website, optimise site content, and other purposes. A cookie is a passive file and cannot spread computer viruses or other malware. Certain cookies are put in place by other parties (so-called third parties), i.e. a party other than the one in the address bar (the URL) in the browser. Their content can be generic, but can also include analytical tools or embedded comment fields, for instance. This means that these cookies stored are from parties other than the owner of the website.

Some cookies are only stored on the user's IT equipment for as long as the user has his/her browser open (session cookies). Other cookies are retained for a longer period of time (persistent cookies). Session cookies will typically be added again when the user re-visits a website, whereas persistent cookies will typically be renewed.

Our Privacy Policy, <http://lowenco.com/wp-content/uploads/2022/06/privacy-policy.pdf>, provides information about how we use the personal data that our cookies collect about you when you visit our website.

3. Cookies declaration

It is possible to see which specific cookies we use by opening the cookie banner on the website. On 'www.lowenco.com', Lowenco A/S ('Lowenco'/'we'/'us') uses the following categories of cookies:

Essential cookies: Essential cookies help make a website usable by enabling basic functions such as page navigation and access to secure areas of the website. The website's functionality would not be optimal without these cookies.

Functionality cookies: Functionality cookies make it possible to store information that changes the way the website looks or responds, e.g. your language preference or the region you are in.

Statistical cookies: Statistical cookies help the website's owner understand how visitors interact with the website by collecting and reporting information.

Marketing cookies: Marketing cookies are used to track visitors across websites. The intention here is to be able to display adverts that are relevant and engaging for each individual user and thus make the advertisements more valuable to publishers and third-party advertisers.

Unclassified cookies: We are in the process of classifying unclassified cookies in cooperation with the providers of the individual cookies.

4. How do you delete/avoid cookies?

How you delete or prevent cookies being stored on your IT equipment will depend on your browser. If you are using a computer, you can delete cookies with the shortcut [CTRL]+[SHIFT]+[Delete].

If this does not work, or if you are using a MAC computer, you should click the link for the browser you are using:
